-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --
Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 01 November 2005.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL.                      2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-22 are pending in this Office Action.

Double Patenting

2. A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

3. Claims 1-22 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 1-22 of copending Application No. 10/608,266. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Richardson (US 5,757,908) in view of Fitzpatrick et al. (US 2002/0184033).

As per claim 1, Richardson teaches, "a method of modifying a diagnostic device", the method comprising:

"receiving, from a user, product-identifying information for the diagnostic device" (Fig. 2, elements B and B1);

"transmitting a software key that corresponds to the product-identifying information and software key to be spoken to the user" (Fig. 2, element "user given Registration No." and col. 7, lines 36-50).

Richardson does not explicitly teach, "a text-to-speech server and performing a text-to-speech conversion". However, Fitzpatrick teaches, "a text-to-speech server and performing a text-to-speech conversion" (paragraph 0173). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use a text-to-speech server because Fitzpatrick teaches his invention uses VXML to provide plentiful, inexpensive and powerful web application development tools (paragraph 0174).

As per claim 2, Richardson teaches, "entering the software key into the diagnostic device, and wherein modifying the diagnostic device comprises unlocking at least one feature in response to the software key being entered" (Fig. 2C).

As per claim 3, Richardson teaches, "entering the software key into the diagnostic device, and wherein modifying the diagnostic device comprises enabling a software update in response to the software key being entered" (Fig. 2C).

As per claim 4, Richardson teaches, "receiving, from the user, payment information" (Fig. 2, element C).

As per claim 5, Cooper teaches, "wherein the payment information comprises credit card information" (Fig. 2, element C).

As per claim 6, Richardson teaches, "receiving, from the user, feature-identifying information corresponding to the feature to be unlocked".

As per claim 7, Richardson teaches, "wherein the product-identifying information comprises a serial number" (Fig. 2b, element "Serial No.).

As per claim 8, Richardson does not explicitly teach, "a text-to-speech server in VXML format". However, Fitzpatrick teaches, "a text-to-speech server in VXML format" (paragraphs 0170-0173). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use a text-to-speech server because Fitzpatrick teaches his invention uses VXML to provide plentiful, inexpensive and powerful web application development tools (paragraph 0174).

As per claim 9, Richardson teaches, "wherein the software key is transmitted via the internet" (col. 7, lines 33-35).

As per claim 10, Richardson teaches, "transmitting a prompt to the user requesting the user to specify a diagnostic device type" (Fig. 2, element B).

As per claim 11, Richardson teaches, "indicating to the user that a feature of the diagnostic device must be unlocked before it can be used" (col. 6, lines 42-67).

As per claim 12, Richardson teaches, "wherein the product-identifying information is a DTMF signal" (col. 7, lines 33-35).

As per claim 13, Richardson teaches, "wherein the product-identifying information comprises a set of spoken characters" (col. 7, lines 33-35).

As per claims 14-22, they are interpreted and thus rejected for the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claims 1-13.
